Characteristics of Company

The features or characteristics help us to have proper understanding and make distinction between a company and other business associations.
If an association possesses all the following features, it can be called as a company and if not, it is not a company.

1. Corporate Personality / Separate Legal Entity

The fundamental attribute of incorporation of a company is its independent legal existence apart from its members. Once a company is incorporated, it is treated as a legal person distinct from its members and capable to enjoy all the rights as like a human with certain exceptions.

> A company is at law a different person altogether from the subscribers....
>
> — Salomon v. Salomon & Co. Ltd. (1897)

Key Features (Clause-wise Explanation)

1. Independent legal existence
   Once incorporated, the company gets an existence of its own, separate from the persons who formed it.
2. Company is a legal person
   It can own property, enter contracts, sue and be sued in its own name.
3. Separate from members
   Shareholders and members are different legal persons from the company.
4. Not the agent of shareholders
   Shareholders do not automatically act as principals of the company, and the company does not act merely as their agent.
5. Company's assets ≠ shareholders' assets
   Property owned by the company belongs to the company, not to individual shareholders.
6. Shareholders' property ≠ company property
   Personal assets of shareholders belong to them and cannot ordinarily be treated as assets of the company.
7. Company's liability is its own liability
   Debts and obligations of the company are genoerally the company's liabilities, not the shareholders'.
8. Directors are separate from the company
   Directors manage the company but are not the company itself.
9. Directors are not employers of company employees
   Employees are generally employed by the company, not personally by the directors.
10. Director/shareholder liability ≠ company liability
    The personal liability of a director or shareholder is separate from the company's liability, subject to situations where law provides personal liability.
11. Company can have rights and duties
    The company can acquire rights and can be subject to legal duties independently of its members.

Case Laws

1 Salomon v. Salomon & Co. Ltd. (1897)

Facts: Salomon incorporated a company and controlled it. When the company became insolvent, creditors argued that the company and Salomon were the same person.

Decision: House of Lords held that the company is a separate legal person from Salomon.

Principle: Even if one person controls the company, it is still a separate legal entity.

Salomon case = Foundation of the principle of separate legal entity.

2 Lee v. Lee's Air Farming Ltd. (1960)

Facts: Lee held almost all shares and was director and chief pilot. He died in an accident. His widow claimed compensation as a dependent.

Decision: Court held there was a valid contract of service between Lee and the company.

Principle: A shareholder/director can also be an employee of the company.

Lee case = A shareholder/director can also be an employee of the company.

3 Bacha F. Guzdar v. Commissioner of Income Tax, Bombay (1955)

Facts: Mrs. Guzdar received dividends from a tea company and claimed it should be treated as agricultural income.

Decision: Court rejected the argument.

Principle: Company's income/property is distinct from shareholder's income/property.

Guzdar case = Company's income is distinct from shareholder's income.

4 Piyush Raj Pandey v. Tax Office, Kathmandu (2040)

Facts: Mr. Pandey incorporated a company and controlled it. Tax Office attempted to withhold his personal property for the company's tax liability.

Decision: Supreme Court accepted his claim.

Principle: Company's liability is separate from the shareholder's personal property.

Piyush Raj Pandey case = Company's liability cannot ordinarily be enforced against shareholder's property.

Upon incorporation, a company becomes a separatte legal person distinct from its members, with its own property, rights, obligations and liabilities.

Characteristics of Company

The features or characteristics help us to have proper understanding and make distinaction between a company and other business associations.

2 Limited Liability

- Shareholders are liable for the company's debts only up to the value of their shares.
- Their personal assets are generally protected from the company's liabilities.
- Directors and staff are not personally liable for the company's losses (unless there is fraud or wrong).

This protects shareholders' property and encourages investment, especially in risky businesses.

Exceptions – When limited liability may be lost:

- Fewer than the statutory minimum members (e.g., 7 in a public company) for more than 6 months (s.29).
- Court may declare persons personally liable (without limit) if the company's business is carried on to defraud creditors (s.30).

3 Perpetual Succession

- The company continues to exist irrespective of changes in shareholders or directors.
- Death, insolvency or retirement of members does not affect the life of the company.
- A company has no fixed life span and can only be dissolved as per the law.

Thus, even if all shareholders die, the company does not cease to exist.

4 Common Seal

- The common seal is the signature of the company.
- It is used in letters, documents, reports, accounts, bills, etc., to acknowledge the company's acceptance of the contents.
- Misuse of the seal can make the person in default liable for the loss.
- The seal and its use are governed by Section 26 of the Companies Act, 2063.

The common seal gives official authenticity to the company's actions and documents.

5 Separate Property

- The company owns its own property, which is separate from the personal property of its members or directors.
- Shareholders' assets cannot be treated as the company's assets.
- Similarly, the company's assets are not the personal assets of the shareholders.

Company and its members have separate assets and legal identity.

Case Law

1 Macaura v. Northern Assurance Co. Ltd. (1925)

Facts

- Mr. Macaura held all except one share of a timber company.
- He had also advanced a substantial amount to the company.
- He insured the timber of the company in his personal name.
- When the timber was destroyed by fire, his claim was rejected for want of insurable interest.

Decision

- The Court, applying the principle of separate legal entity, held that the insurance company was not liable.

Principle

- Even where a shareholder held almost the entire share capital, he did not have an insurable interest in the property of the company.

Key Point

- Company property belongs to the company, not to its shareholders personally.

A company is a legal person distinct from its members, with its own property, rights, obligations and liabilities.

Characteristics of Company

Balance Characteristics of a Company

6 Capacity to Sue and Subject to be Sued

- The company can sue or be sued in its own name.
- Creditors or other persons can file a case only in the name of the company (not against shareholders personally).
- A company can sue its officials, staff and shareholders; and they can sue their own company.
- If a case against the company is not a case against shareholders, and a case by the company is not filed by its shareholders or officials.
- For example, directors cannot file a suit to avoid a lease deed unless it is by the company.

7 Transferability of Shares

- A share is a right to a specified amount of share capital with certain rights and liabilities.
- Shares are, subject to conditions, freely transferable as per the Articles of the company.
- No shareholder is permanently or necessarily wedded to the company.
- A company cannot refuse to accept transfer except as provided in its articles.
- Share is movable property and can be transferred and pledged.
- In a public company, transfer is free; in a private company, there are restrictions (as per MOA & AOA).

8 Management by Professionals / Representatives

- It is difficult to control and manage a company by its shareholders where there are many shareholders (common in public companies).
- Company law provides for a Board of Directors.
- The Board represents the shareholders as they are elected or selected in the general meeting.
- The board and other officials appointed by them manage the business and exercise control over the company.

9 Borrowing Capacity

- Company can borrow loans and obtain other credit facilities to meet its business or trade targets.
- Banks and financial institutions provide loans and credit facilities easily to companies in trade and industry.
- Corporate financing is a major banking activity of banks and financial institutions.
- While borrowing, shareholders' property need not be provided as security.
- Neither shareholders nor directors are personally or collectively liable for the borrowings.

10 Imposition of Tax

- Tax is imposed on the income of a company at a high rate compared to private or partnership firms or individuals.
- No tax rebate or exemption is available to the company's income as enjoyed by individuals or private firms.
- A company, being a complex and formal business structure, has to bear various kinds of tax burdens during incorporation, formation of capital or operation of business.

11 Formalities, Publicity and Expense

- The company must comply with the formalities as fixed by the company law and the memorandum and articles of association.
- It must maintain publicity of the business and financial documents to the concerned authority.
- Therefore, the operation of the company and its business is more expensive than that of private or partnership firms.

A company is a legal person distinct from its members, with its own property, rights, obligations and liabilities.

LIFTING OF CORPORATE VEIL

Separate Legal Personality – The Basic Rule

1 THE BASIC RULE

Company is a separate legal entity

- Company is distinct from its shareholders.
- Company is not the agent of shareholders.
- Shareholders cannot treat the company's assets as their own.
- Shareholders' property is not the company's property.
- Liability of the company is not the liability of shareholders.
- Directors are not the employer of the company's employees.
- Director's/shareholder's liability is not the company's liability.

Key Principle

Salomon v. Salomon & Co. Ltd. (1897)

– Separate legal personality established.

! BUT...

The corporate personality is not absolute.

In exceptional circumstances, the law may look behind the corporate structure and identify the persons or entities controlling it.

KEY TAKEAWAY

The corporate veil provides limited liability and separate legal personality, but it is not an absolute shield. The courts may lift the veil in exceptional situations to prevent fraud, misrepresentation or other forms of abuse.

LIFTING OF CORPORATE VEIL

When Can the Corporate Veil Be Lifted?

FIVE BROAD CATEGORIES

1. Holding & subsidiary relationship
2. Reduction in number of members
3. Tax, death duties & stamp matters
4. Exchange control
5. Trading with the enemy

III PROF. GOWER'S THREE CIRCUMSTANCES

The court may look behind corporate personality in the following situations:

01 Statutory / Documentary Interpretation
When construing a statute, contract or other document.

02 Mere Façade / Sham
When the company is being used as a façade concealing the true facts.

03 Agency
When the company is established to be an authorized agent of its controllers/members.

IMPORTANT: The court cannot lift the veil merely because it considers that justice requires it.

"The veil may be lifted, but only in exceptional circumstances recognized by law."

LIFTING THE VEIL
STATUTORY PROVISIONS I

When the law allows, the corporate veil can be lifted.

1 REDUCTION IN NUMBER OF MEMBERS

If a company continues business beyond the prescribed period with fewer than the legally required members, the following consequences apply:

1. Continuing members may become personally liable.
2. Liability is joint and several with the company.
3. Only members who remain after the prescribed period are affected.
4. Member must have knowledge of the reduced membership.
5. Liability applies to debts contracted after the prescribed period.
6. Liability attaches to members, not directors.

FRAUDULENT TRADING

During winding up, where business is carried on:

- with intent to defraud creditors, or
- for any fraudulent purpose,

the court may declare persons knowingly involved personally liable for company debts/liabilities to the extent directed.

Key Requirement | Actual dishonesty involving real moral blame must be established.

2 FRAUDULENT TRADING

During winding up, where business is carried on:

- Liabilities joint with fewer than the legally required members, the following consequences apply:
- Only members who remain after the prescribed period are affected.
- Member must have knowledge of the reduced membership.
- Liability applies to debts contracted after the prescribed period.
- Liability attaches to members, not directors.

Key Requirement | Actual dishonesty involving real moral blame must be established.

IN SUMMARY

Statutory provisions give the court a clear basis to look behind the corporate structure in certain specified situations.

"The corporate veil is not impenetrable — the law provides specific situations where it can be lifted."

LIFTING THE VEIL
OTHER STATUTORY GROUNDS

Certain statutes provide express grounds where the corporate veil can be lifted.

3 WRONGFUL TRADING

Applies where:

- Company enters insolvent liquidation.
- Person was a director before winding up.
- Director knew or ought to have concluded that there was no reasonable prospect of avoiding insolvent liquidation.
- Director failed to take appropriate steps to minimize creditors' loss.

Possible consequence:
Personal / criminal liability as applicable.

4 MISDESCRIPTION OF COMPANY NAME

Officers may become personally liable where:

- They contract in their personal capacity, or
- The company's correct and full name is not properly stated.

Case: Hendon v. Adelman
Incorrect company name on cheque → director personally liable.

5 PREMATURE TRADING

A public company must not commence business / exercise borrowing powers before obtaining the required certificate of commencement of business.

Consequences:

- Officers in default → fine
- Directors → jointly / severally liable to indemnify the other party for resulting loss.

6 KEY TAKEAWAY

- These provisions are statutory exceptions to the general rule of separate legal personality.
- They aim to prevent fraud, protect creditors, and ensure fair dealing in commercial transactions.

The corporate veil is not absolute.
Statutes can lift it in specific situations.

5 COMPANY GROUPS & JUDICIAL LIFTING

Certain statutes provide express grounds where the corporate veil can be lifted.

1 COMPANY GROUPS

Where one company controls another:

- Group financial reporting may require the overall position of the group to be presented.
- Parent company may need to present consolidated financial statements.
- Subsidiaries may be required to follow the same accounting policies.
- Allows a more accurate view of the group's financial position and performance.

2 JUDICIAL LIFTING — WHEN?

The court may look behind the corporate structure in the following situations:

1 Group of Companies

Use of one company to avoid legal obligations or to treat the group as a single economic unit.

2 Fraud / Improper Conduct

Where the corporate form is used for fraud, improper conduct or to avoid existing legal obligations.

3 Other Exceptional Cases

In rare and exceptional cases, where justice demands it, the court may look beyond the corporate structure.

3 KEY TAKEAWAY

- The veil is not lifted automatically — it requires specific statutory or judicial grounds.
- It is not enough that the court thinks justice requires it.
- The focus is on the facts, intention and conduct of the parties involved.

4 IMPORTANT REMEMBER

The court cannot lift the veil merely because it considers that justice requires it.

Key Takeaway: Company groups and judicial lifting help ensure that the corporate structure is not misused and that the true substance of the transaction is considered, especially where there is fraud, control or avoidance of legal obligations.

LIFTING OF CORPORATE VEIL — KEY CASE LAWS I

EXAMINING ENEMY CHARACTER, RACE-BASED RESTRICTIONS, & AGENCY

Certain leading judicial decisions illustrate the exceptions to the corporate personality rule.

1 DAIMLER CO. V. CONTINENTAL TYRE & RUBBER CO.

[1916] 2 AC 307

Issue: Enemy character of a company during wartime.

- English company sold tyres by German company.
- German company held majority shares.
- Directors/shareholders were German residents.
- Court examined de facto control.
- Company could assume enemy character where controllers were enemies.
- Company prevented from action as it benefited the enemy.

KEY RULE

Principle: Control may be examined to determine the enemy character of a company.

2 PEOPLE'S PLEASURE PARK CO. V. ROHLEDER

(1908) 61 SE 794

Fact: Property restriction prohibited transfer to coloured persons.

- Property transferred to a company of exclusively Black persons.
- Court refused to disregard separate personality.
- Members individually/collectively were not the corporation.

KEY RULE

Principle: Mere composition of shareholders does not automatically justify lifting the veil.

3 APTHORPE V. PETER SCHOENHOFEN BREWING CO.

(1899) 80 LT 395

English company → American company

Fact: English company acquired American company business/assets.

- Business financed/run by the English company.
- Court treated American company as agent of English company.
- Profits were treated as income of the English company for taxation.

KEY RULE

Principle: Corporate structure may be disregarded where the company operat as an agent of another company.

THE CORPORATE VEIL is a strong rule, but Courts can look behind it based on clear legal principles and evidence of its use for an improper purpose.

LIFTING OF CORPORATE VEIL — KEY CASE LAWS II

EXAMINING FRAUD, MERE FAÇADE, AND IMPROPER CONDUCT

Certain leading judicial decisions illustrate the exceptions to the corporate personality rule.

1 JONES V. LIPMAN

[1962] 1 WLR 832

Facts:

- Lipman contracted to sell land to Jones.
- He formed a company and transferred the land to it.
- Purpose was to defeat Jones' right to specific performance.

KEY RULE Principle: A company cannot be used as a device to defeat contractual/legal obligations.

2 GILFORD MOTOR CO. V. HORNE

(1933) 1 Ch 935

Facts:

- Horne was subject to a restriction against soliciting his former employer's customers.
- He formed a company after leaving employment.
- Company was used to solicit the employer's customers.

KEY RULE Principle: Corporate form cannot be used as a cloak to evade contractual restrictions.

3 CREASEY V. BREACHWOOD MOTORS LTD.

1993 BCLC 480

Facts: Employee brought wrongful-dismissal proceedings.

- Original employer ceased trading.
- Assets were transferred to another company.
- Original company became assetless and was dissolved.
- Transferee company was ordered to satisfy the decree.

KEY RULE Principle: Corporate structure may be examined where it is used in a manner that disregards creditors' interests.

THE CORPORATE VEIL is a strong rule, but Courts can look behind it based on clear legal principles and evidence of its use for an improper purpose.

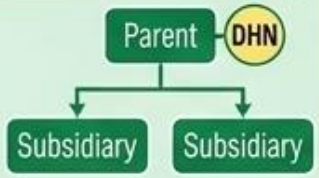
AGENCY, GROUPS & EXAM REVISION

KEY CASE LAWS & SUMMARY

Certain leading judicial decisions illustrate the exceptions to the corporate personality rule.

1 D.H.N. FOOD DISTRIBUTORS LTD. v. TOWER HAMLETS L.B.C.

[1976] 1 WLR 852



Facts:

- DHN had two wholly owned subsidiaries.
- Land was held by one subsidiary.
- DHN conducted the business using the property.
- Court treated the companies as virtually one economic unit for the relevant purpose.

KEY RULE

Principle: In appropriate circumstances, a parent and subsidiary group may be considered together rather than separately.

2 SUMMARY TABLE

Ground	Key Idea	Case / Point
Enemy Character	Examine real control	Daimler
Tax / Revenue	Avoidance of tax obligations	Apthorpe
Fraud / Improper Conduct	Company used to defeat obligations	Jones v. Lipman
Façade / Sham	Company used as a cloak	Gilford Motor
Transfer of Assets	Structure prejudices creditors	Creasey
Group / Economic Unit	Parent + subsidiaries considered together	DHN
No Automatic Lifting	Separate personality maintained	People's Pleasure Park
Misdescription	Incorrect company name	Hendon v. Adelman

KEY RULE

Principle: The Golden Rule: Separate Legal Personality is the RULE — Lifting the Corporate Veil is the EXCEPTION.

3 AGENCY & PRINCIPLES

- Judicial grounds include: Single Economic Unit, Sham/Cloak/Façade, Agency.
- Courts look behind form for exceptional purpose recognized by law.
- The overall group position may be required in group financial reporting.
- Limits misleading company-by-company viewing.

KEY RULE

Principle: Corporate structure may be disregarded where the company operates as an authorized agent of its controllers or another entity.

THE CORPORATE VEIL is a strong rule, but Courts can look behind it based on clear legal principles and evidence of its use for an improper purpose.

Key Provisions of Employee Share Sale Scheme under Companies Act, 2063

1 Scheme to Issue/Allot Shares

The company may implement a scheme to issue or allot shares to a director or an employee of the company, its subsidiary, holding company, or subsidiary of holding company, enabling them to purchase shares.
(Director must be in regular employment of the company.)

2 Right Vested

The right to purchase or not to purchase shares under the scheme shall vest in the concerned director or employee.

3 Special Resolution Required

A special resolution must be passed by the general meeting of the company before implementing the scheme.

4 Scheme Must Include the Following Details

- (a) Number of shares to be issued or allotted
- (b) Details of eligible employees
- (c) Period for which option to purchase remains open
- (d) Purchase price of the shares
- (e) Number of shares each employee is entitled to purchase
- (f) Other appropriate matters

5 Lock-in Period

Shares purchased under this scheme shall not be sold or distributed during the lock-in period determined by the company.

6 Eligibility

An employee in service until the expiry of the option period may participate in the scheme.

7 Unpurchased Shares

If an employee does not purchase shares within the open period, such unpurchased shares may be opened for purchase by other employees.

8 Disclosure in Report

Details of issuance and purchase of shares under the scheme must be included in the report required under Section 109(4).

Objective: To promote employee participation and ownership in the company through a transparent and regulated share purchase scheme.
